Tim Sullivan is a partner at Upton & Hatfield, where he primarily practices municipal law. Prior to joining Upton & Hatfield, he worked at the New Hampshire Attorney General's Office in the Criminal Bureau as a Senior Assistant Attorney General. In 2020, he was appointed to serve as the Chief of the Public Integrity Unit. In that capacity, he reviewed, investigated, and prosecuted allegations of criminal conduct by state and law enforcement officials. He was also appointed as lead counsel to investigate and prosecute historical allegations of physical and sexual abuse arising out of juvenile detention facilities in New Hampshire. Prior to joining the Attorney General's Office, Sullivan worked at the Strafford County Attorney's Office for eight years, where he served as the Deputy County Attorney, prosecuting serious felony crimes. Prior to that, he worked for a small general practice firm in Massachusetts, where he handled a variety of matters, including criminal defense, bankruptcy, personal injury, and family law.

Sullivan is a lifelong resident of New Hampshire. Since 2024, Tim has served as an adjunct professor at the University of New Hampshire School of Law, teaching Fundamentals of Law to 1L students. Tim is admitted to practice in Massachusetts and New Hampshire in both state and federal courts.
